FOREWORD

The various activities of our San Francisco Police Department are definitely shown in the statistical tables in the ensuing pages. The facts set forth reveal the outstanding effectiveness of the Department in the protection of life and property during the past fiscal year. This is unequivocal evidence of the energetic and conscientious performance of duty by the men composing the patrol group, the Bureau of Inspectors, and the Traffic Bureau of the Department; and the splendid personnel direction under which they functioned.

Notwithstanding the fact that our Golden Gate International Exposition which opened on Treasure Island on February 18, 1939—and is still attracting tens of thousands of visitors daily—is a continuing police problem, San Francisco has not experienced an “upward crime trend,” as evidenced by statistics in our annual report for the fiscal year. In fact, robberies and larcenies for 1939-1940 are less than for 1938-1939.

Certain sub-units of the Department, such as the Treasure Island Company, the Traffic Bureau, the Crime Prevention Bureau and the Subversive Activities Bureau, deserve individual mention for their effectiveness in maintaining the high standard of efficiency for which our Department is noted.

Golden Gate International Exposition

When San Francisco decided to hold a world's fair to celebrate and commemorate the building of the two magnificent bridges over its bay, one of the problems of successfully conducting such an enterprise was the safeguarding of the persons and property of the millions of visitors expected.

Treasure Island being located within the boundaries of San Francisco the problem of protecting and assisting the visitors, exhibitors and the concessionaires became the duty of the San Francisco Police Department—and, to a certain extent, a police problem for the law enforcement agencies of the San Francisco Bay area.

Months ahead of the opening date meetings with peace officials of Bay area jurisdictions were held, and a detailed scheme carefully planned to offset the various police difficulties attendant on the holding of national expositions. A complete company, including one captain, four lieutenants, thirteen sergeants, sixty-four patrolmen, four motorcycle patrolmen, two inspectors, two patrol wagon drivers, and two matrons, was ready for active duty at our police headquarters on Treasure Island the opening day of the Exposition. This company was divided into three platoons, and on peak days was augmented by officers and patrolmen from other companies of the department.

Our Treasure Island police company cooperated closely with members of the police jurisdictions of the San Francisco Bay area, and with Major Francis J. Heraty, commander of the five hundred guards and guides which he maintained on the exposition grounds as a military unit, also with the State Police and the U. S. military unit of the 30th Infantry which was under command of Lt. General Albert J. Bowley.

Due directly to the fact that plans to properly police the exposition were thoroughly planned and assiduously adhered to crime at Treasure Island was kept to an unbelievable minimum, the offenses reported to the police averaging less than one per day. Only one robbery was committed, and the culprit was immediately arrested on the mainland. Of the six burglaries (reported as such) four proved to be petty thefts, and none involved property values of any consequence.

Pickpocketing and purse snatching are dominant crimes where large groups of people assemble. During the entire period of the fair only four cases of purse snatching and fifteen of pocket picking were reported to the police.

Considering the fact that the daily attendance during the entire fair period was more than 41,000, arriving by ferry and in more than 10,000 automobiles, the amazing lack of reported criminal offenses and the entire lack of traffic accidents reported is a phenomenal record—one to which our Department may point with pardonable pride.

Traffic Bureau

The traffic problem is probably the most vital police question of today. Expansion of activities to meet the public demand for the expedition of traffic flows and the promotion of safety, must, of necessity, feature the operation of our Traffic Bureau, which at present has a personnel of two hundred and ninety-five.

Our traffic volume has grown to an alarming extent, but, as our detailed statistics reveal, our total traffic accidents have not increased accordingly, due to careful planning and intelligent enforcement. San Francisco ranks fourth in the National Traffic Safety Contest for cities of over 500,000 population, Buffalo, Cleveland and Boston being the only cities securing a better traffic safety percentage.

Realizing that it is only through assiduous and intelligent efforts, along traffic lines, this department can hope for success in reducing traffic accidents, our Accident Prevention Bureau was organized within the Department on February 15, 1939, to take over the investigation of all traffic accidents. The personnel includes: A lieutenant in charge, five sergeants, and fifty-nine police officers.

Accidents are caused—hence are preventable. Keeping this fact in mind the goal of our Traffic Bureau is to find the various causes of our traffic troubles and provide the best possible remedies, even to the extent of soliciting the cooperation of the driving public in the matter of practicing and promoting traffic safety.

The Bureau maintains a detailed accident location file and analysis-reports file for "high" accident areas. Members of the Bureau are detailed to enforce traffic ordinances according to exigencies apparent from the time, place and frequency of accidents during weekly or monthly periods.

Our School Traffic Patrol has aided materially in minimizing accidents. Members of the School Traffic Patrol are personally trained by our department, in the matter of enforcement; and children in both the public and private schools of San Francisco receive group instruction on avoidance of traffic accidents. To this teaching may possibly be attributed the fact that not a child of school-going age has been killed during the past fiscal year at a school crossing where members of the School Traffic Patrol were on duty.

Crime Prevention

San Francisco has maintained a nationally known low average of crime, and in the accomplishment of this result our Crime Prevention Bureau is a most important factor. As its name indicates, the work of the bureau is principally that of investigating suspicious persons, places and occurrences, and following up leads or any other source of information likely to lead to individuals or groups who have committed, or who are planning to commit, crime. Mainly through the vigilance of this unit of our Bureau of Inspectors, San Francisco was saved the scourge of racketeering and gangsterism. The work of our Crime Prevention Bureau is ably supplemented by our Bureau of Special Services and our Big Brother Bureau.

Bureau of Special Services

Our Bureau of Special Services was established three years ago, its duties being the investigation of vice complaints concerning gambling, drug or liquor sales, and commercialized vice generally. Members of this Bureau are also detailed to work with operatives of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and the State Narcotics Division.

As a result of its cooperation with the Department of Public Health in the suppression of the spread of venereal diseases 3.25% of the 4,522 arrested for prostitution and placed in quarantine were held for the County Jail for treatment. This bureau, during the past fiscal year, conducted more than two hundred inspections of massage parlors in cooperation with the Department of Public Health.

Big Brother Bureau

As a factor in crime prevention our Big Brother Bureau is really a juvenile crime prevention bureau. Juvenile delinquency and truancy are the stepping stones to petty crime, a criminal career, and the penitentiary. The bureau is concerned primarily with male youths who come under the general headings of truants or delinquents.

Over one thousand such boys were cared for by the bureau during the past fiscal year. About two-thirds of this large number of errant youths came to San Francisco from other states, and, being mostly penniless and friendless, were virtually ready to commit petty thefts or become the tools of adult criminals.

The Bureau cared for these boys, in the matter of securing employment, returning them to their parents, gaining admission to various units of the military service, or placing them in charge of agencies equipped to handle particular cases.

Subversive Activities Detail

San Francisco being one of the shipping centers of the world, in addition to being an outstanding cosmopolitan city, it is only natural to assume leaders in subversive activities will carry on an extensive campaign here. As a sub-unit of our Bureau of Inspectors our Subversive Activities Detail has functioned for the past ten years. Since 1930 this detail has been compiling records and building up information files on subversive groups in the San Francisco Bay region, with the result that today our files present an excellent cross section of practically all the un-American organizations in San Francisco and the Bay region generally.

This detail is composed of men thoroughly conversant with subversive activities' modus operandi and capable of handling all information, anonymous or otherwise, and thoroughly investigating all complaints concerning un-American activities of groups or individuals.

If, after investigation, it is found that there is merit to the information given in the original complaint, the names of the suspects and all data pertaining to their activities in the subversive organization with which they are connected, are card-indexed and made a part of our permanent record.

Should other information be received at later dates concerning these suspects it is added to the original file and the members of this detail thus become more and more familiar with the activities of the various subversive groups and suspects.

Thus our department information file on a particular complaint shows all the information connected therewith as to the reliability of the informant, the history of the parties complained of and the extent and scope of their subversive activities.

This detail also cooperates with our city and county agencies, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and police departments throughout the country. This systematic exchange on known subversive groups and suspects is of the utmost importance for the reason that in the subversive activities' field it is found the secret agents transfer quite frequently, depending on economic and industrial situation exigencies and the opportunity of furthering their activities in the subversive field.

At the present time much information on un-American activities is being reported to our department, due probably to the fact that the present war situation in Europe has brought home to our American people the vital necessity of stamping out every movement that is tainted with un-Americanism.

Our Department thoroughly appreciates the information received concerning the actions of subversive groups within our midst. These groups constantly change the names of their various organizations as well as their meeting places, and any pertinent information received from our good citizens concerning their activities aids our department materially to continue as an ever-present menace to the best laid plans of these ingrates, who, unfortunately, are in America but who are neither of nor for America.

Our Police Department saved San Francisco from the scourge of racketeering and gangsterism at a time when the racketeer kings flaunted law in the cities and towns of the entire nation. Today, our San Francisco Police Department has our subversive activities situation so thoroughly in hand that the best local leaders, in this cankerous treason which has spread over our country, realize, to their dismay, that in San Francisco their very best efforts have been futile, in the matter of fomenting industrial, social or political strife inimical to the enjoyment of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—the glorious heritage of all true Americans.

POLICE ACADEMY

With a view to having our San Francisco Police Department Academy on a par with the best in-service-training police schools in the country, a number of the members of this department were selected on the basis of specialized ability and experience to be trained as instructors to constitute the faculty of our Police Academy.

Through the kindness of J. Edgar Hoover, Director, United States Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigation, this group was given a full-time course in Police Instruction under the personal supervision of Laurence E. Hince, chief instructor of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice.

Mr. Hince and his aides of the Federal Bureau of Investigation demonstrated, during a two-week, full-time course, to this selected group the proper method of instructing in-service groups in the various phases of police routine, as well as military training, yawara, the mechanics, safety and use of firearms, tear gas bombs, et cetera.

This course for our department prospective police academy faculty members was modeled on refresher courses given under the auspices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington, D. C. The selected members were instructed in detail by Mr. Hince and his assistants in the proper method of giving instruction in the various subjects making up the curriculum of police academy courses for recruits, and refresher courses for men in the various ranks of the department.

At the conclusion of the course given the faculty members of our police academy, two-week courses, first, for captains and lieutenants and later for sergeants, in groups of approximately fifty, were given by our department faculty members, supervised by instructors of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

At the conclusion of the in-service training for commissioned and non-commissioned officer's classes of two weeks duration (full time) were instituted for patrolmen. These classes were selected in groups of fifty, starting with those men most recently appointed to the department, the course being continued throughout the year.

As a result of the continuous functioning of our police academy, and our system of group instructions by instructors who are experts in their individual police department lines, the entire membership of our department has the advantage of a thorough instruction in general law enforcement work and in the various specialized fields which are a part of modern police routine.

BIG BROTHER DIVISION

The Big Brother Division of the San Francisco Police Department is primarily a juvenile crime prevention bureau, engaged exclusively with juvenile male youths. The function of the bureau is, as the name implies, to investigate cases of juvenile delinquency and, if possible, to eliminate the contributing causes leading thereto.

The types of cases coming to the attention of this bureau are, for the purpose of classification, divided into two distinct groups: transient cases and local cases.

Transient cases refer to boys who have migrated from many parts of the United States to this city, having left their homes for various reasons and found their way to this bureau in search of aid, advice and shelter. Of this group, the greater number were formerly sent to the St. Vincent de Paul Boys' Center, where they were given an opportunity to enjoy a temporary refuge pending arrangement for their safe return home or possible acquisition of employment. All of these youths were counselled and advised as to the proper procedure for their respective cases. Many of these boys, through the efforts of the Big Brother Division of this department, were able to secure employment, either temporary or permanent, and many others have gained entrance into the various branches of the military service.

The local cases are comprised of boys who are residents of San Francisco who have already transgressed the law, or who in the opinion of the referring agency, are in danger of entering a career of crime. These boys are referred to the Big Brother Division by the following sources: courts, schools (public and parochial), parole officers, probation officers, policemen, city prison, sheriff's office, police reports, private social agencies, public social agencies, churches, parents, self, and anonymous letters.

The services rendered by this division to the individual are supervision, advice, effort to remove contributing causes to the delinquency of the boy, securing of employment, and referral to the agency best equipped to handle a particular problem.

The services rendered to a group of boys are securing sponsorship of service clubs in the formation of athletic teams, securing leadership for Boy Scout troops, et cetera, and assistance in the handling of field meets and other activities conducted by groups interested in the elimination of juvenile delinquency. All bicycles reported lost, stolen, or found, are referred to this division for proper investigation and disposition.

BUREAU OF SPECIAL SERVICES

The Bureau of Special Services was established April 17, 1937. Its function is to investigate complaints of gambling, prostitution, illegal sale of liquor, and other similar complaints, in general, to act in the prevention of morals crime and in the suppression of commercialized vice.

Following is the statistical report of the Bureau of Special Services for the twelve month period ending June 30, 1940

Keepers.....	294

This bureau works in close cooperation with the Department of Public Health in the suppression of venereal diseases. Last year one hundred and sixty-four reported sources of infection were investigated by this bureau, arrests being made in every case where a violation of the law had occurred.

All women arrested as prostitutes are held in quarantine at the city prison and not released before their submission to an examination by the physician on duty at the city prison clinic. Last year 4,526 women were held in quarantine, and four refused examination. Of 4,522 who were examined, 147 (or 3.25% of the total) were detained after examination and held for the county jail for treatment; 4,375 were released from quarantine after examination.

Two hundred and eighty-five complaints of theft involving prostitutes were investigated by this bureau during the past year.

This bureau also conducted two hundred and seven inspections of licensed massage parlors in this city, upon advice of the Department of Public Health.

On February 26, 1940, the personnel of the Narcotics Detail was transferred to the Chief's Office from the Bureau of Special Services.

This detail, consisting of one man assigned to the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and two men assigned to the State Narcotics Division, makes practically all of its investigations and arrests in conjunction with these two enforcement units.

During the fiscal year, the following arrests were made by members of this detail, for violations of narcotics laws:

TRAFFIC POLICE REVOLVER TEAM

"The San Francisco Traffic Police Revolver Club" was organized in 1929 by the late Captain Charles Goff. In 1930, with the permission of the War Department, members of the club built a (4) target (25) yard range at Fort Funston. In 1932 a modern (26) target (25) and (50) yard range and clubhouse was completed, and the first Northern California Championship Pistol Matches held on the range, teams from the entire state competing. The contest was held over the official Camp Perry Police Course and our San Francisco Police Department team, composed of officers J. Ahern, Al Brune, C. Croble, E. Dutil, E. Franke, and C. J. Smith won with a total of 1409, as against 1407 for the Los Angeles Police Department team, at that time the world's champions. Since the inaugural match, held in 1932 on the club range, which is considered a model throughout the United States, the department team has taken part in every Pacific Coast pistol match, winning on many occasions. The team participates in the Monthly Pistol Matches and the Pacific States Matches, both of which are registered with the National Rifle Association and conducted under their rules and regulations.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION BUREAU

Lieutenant in charge.....	1
Sergeants	5
Officers	59*

*Includes investigators, clerks and squad men.

The Accident Prevention Bureau has a total of 18 squad cars. Two officers in each car patrol the city in a given twenty-four hour period.

The city is divided into districts, each district being patrolled by a squad car. The size of districts is diminished or increased—and number of cars increased or diminished accordingly—to cope with current accident frequency.

The time grouping is so arranged that three cars patrol the city during the periods: 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; 3 p.m. to 11 p.m.; 4 p.m. to 12 p.m.; 7 p.m. to 3 a.m.; and 12 p.m. to 8 a.m. Thus, during the peak traffic hours virtually half the automobile strength of the Accident Prevention Bureau is effective at the various traffic strategic points.

SCHOOL TRAFFIC PATROL REVIEW

SCHOOL TRAFFIC PATROL

Our School Traffic Patrol was created in 1923 for the purpose of training public school children in traffic safety. The value of this training was recognized immediately, and in 1928 the work was extended to also include the private schools of this city. At the present time members of our School Traffic Patrol regiment operate in all of the city's schools, including the high schools; and more than three thousand boys are engaged on traffic duty, at assembly and recess periods, at 550 school crossing intersections in the vicinity of all of our San Francisco schools on every school day.

Through the education of the individual members of the School Traffic Patrol regiment in the supervision of their fellow students, in the matter of "Safety First" laws and regulations, the children of San Francisco are unconsciously becoming traffic minded, and thus a most important group factor making for traffic safety.

In addition to training and supervising the boys who actually perform school traffic patrol duty the inspector from this department in charge of this work gives occasional safety talks to the entire student body of each school, with a view of educating the students in the matter of safe pedestrian practices. Classroom instruction is also being given in the high schools by members of this department on the subject of Driver Education.

The gratifying results achieved through the efforts of the School Traffic Patrol are quite apparent from the following table showing the number of children killed by automobiles in San Francisco during the past fourteen years, these deaths occurring outside of school areas and either before or after school hours:

1927.....	18	1934.....	8
1928.....	22	1935.....	4
1929.....	12	1936.....	10
1930.....	12	1937.....	3
1931.....	10	1938.....	0
1932.....	12	1939.....	3
1933.....	11	1940.....	3

Since the organization of our School Traffic Patrol not one child has been killed or seriously injured at a school crossing where the members of the School Traffic Patrol were on duty.

On Friday, May 29, 1940, the fourteenth annual review of the School Safety Patrol was held on Treasure Island, and the patrols from one hundred and twenty cities and towns were represented, fourteen thousand patrol members participating from approximately seven hundred schools. With the exception of San Diego and Reno, Nevada, all of the patrols were from northern California. A total of thirty bands and fifteen drum corps assisted in furnishing music for the review. This was the largest gathering of school patrol members ever held in California.

Honorable Angelo J. Rossi
City Hall
San Francisco, California

Dear Sir:

In compliance with Section 19, sub-section (c), of the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco, I submit herewith statistical report of the activities of the Police Department of the City and County of San Francisco for the fiscal year 1941-1942.

This report sets forth, in detail, the facts and figures covering the functioning of the Police Department for the period designated, and has been compiled in conformity with the standard of Annual Reports, as adopted and recommended by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

An examination of the statistics given in this Annual Report, in comparison with those of the previous fiscal year, shows a general decrease in the most serious crimes, with a notable decrease in robbery, burglary, and theft, thus proving the effectiveness of the Department in the protection of life and property.

Respectfully submitted,

SCHOOL TRAFFIC PATROL

Our School Traffic Patrols, which were created in the public schools in 1923 and extended to include the private schools in 1928, now have approximately 3,000 boys engaged in traffic safety in San Francisco's one hundred and sixteen (116) schools—public and private.

The boys of the School Traffic Patrols are on duty three times daily at over 600 important street intersections in the vicinity of their schools, during which periods they guard the safety of 100,000 school children.

In conjunction with the members of this department who are detailed at school crossings for the protection of school children, the boys of the School Traffic Patrol have a remarkable safety record—that of not having any child killed or seriously injured at any school crossing during their periods of regular traffic patrol.

The School Traffic Patrol members are organized and trained in their duties each term by the Inspector of School Traffic Patrols and his assistant. The boys are supervised by these two members. From time to time, the Inspector of School Traffic Patrols and his assistant give lectures to the entire student body of each school for the purpose of educating the children in safe traffic practices. The lectures given in the high schools include that of safe driving, and are frequently illustrated with motion pictures on the subject of traffic safety.

As a result of the safety training given to our school children, the accident record for this age group is constantly decreasing, while the accident record of other age groups is on the increase. The school age group has a very fine record regarding traffic fatalities. As previously stated, there has not been a fatal accident to a school child while going to and from school since 1923, when our Traffic Patrols were created. Even the fatal accidents occurring within this age group outside of school hours for the past five years are below an average of three, while the yearly average outside of school hours ran as high as twenty prior to the creating of the School Traffic Patrols.

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL ANNUAL REVIEW, MAY 19, 1942. CIVIC CENTER.

RECRUITS AT POLICE ACADEMY

POLICE ACADEMY

The Police Academy has had its busiest year since its establishment in 1937, because in addition to its regular training of new recruits it was used for Civilian Defense training.

There was only one recruit class of thirty-six policemen graduated; however, there were fifty-four men appointed to the department during the past fiscal year. Of the men appointed, eighteen had previous police experience during the 1939-1940 Golden Gate International Exposition, and because of the urgent need for additional personnel, they were assigned to companies for regular duty without the regular police academic course.

This class, known as the 10th Recruit Class, displayed a high order of intelligence, attention to duty, and diligently pursued the course with credit to themselves and to the academy. The police course is for a period of three months with an eight hour day, six days a week. The courses at the academy may be generally grouped as follows:

Military: Drill, rules and regulations, courtesy and deportment, firearms and riot gases.

Physical Ed.: First aid, gymnasium, Yawara, calisthenics and swimming.

Law: Penal code, vehicle code, traffic code, police code, fire code, health code, federal statutes and rules of evidence.

Reports: Records, general police procedure and patrol duty. (Covers many phases of police duty and modus operandi.)

Traffic: Law enforcement, regulation of accident prevention, etc., operation of vehicles, including motorcycle riding.

Criminology: Laboratory and fingerprints.

In connection with the civilian defense training, all registrations were originally received and processed at the Academy. The processing required the services of as many as sixty-five volunteers at a time to segregate, classify, and codify registrations. These volunteers worked diligently day and night.

The Police Department, being charged with the responsibility of organizing and training both the Auxiliary Police and Air Raid Wardens, has been unusually busy during the year, especially the faculty of the Police Academy, on whom the task of handling the civilian defense registrations in the beginning devolved.

At the present time, the Air Raid Warden Headquarters is established and maintained at the Police Academy, and the Academy faculty is charged with the duties of hiring, training and placement of the clerical help in twelve warden offices; the reception and issuance of warden equipment and supplies; the institution and maintenance of warden personnel and other records; the maintenance and manning of the Warden Headquarters Office day and night; the typing and mimeographing of general orders, special orders, bulletins, circulars, and instructional material. One single order for general circulation calls for thirty thousand copies. There is also public relation service by telephone and personal interview at the Police Academy, requiring much time and knowledge of the entire civilian defense organization.

AUXILIARY POLICE

With the outbreak of hostilities on the 7th day of December, 1941, and the imminent danger of attack upon the Pacific Coast and San Francisco, we adopted a twelve-hour working day and no days off. This policy continued until January, 1942, when the plans for coastal defense had been perfected. During this period, police stations throughout the city were utilized as enrollment stations for all services comprising Civilian Defense. Departmental personnel rendered their services on staffs and boards in the enrollment and interviewing of candidates for the various services of Civilian Defense. In addition, the members of the department co-operated wholeheartedly with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the detention and investigation of enemy aliens.

On January 13, 1942, the Deputy Chief of Police was directed to organize and train an auxiliary police force to supplement the activities of the regular police department in emergencies. Prior thereto, approximately 4,400 residents had indicated their desire to serve in such an organization. The registrants were interviewed in regard to their qualifications and availability to serve by examining boards consisting of a Police Captain and two civilians. Three thousand registrants possessed the proper qualifications and were inducted into the auxiliary police. This group was organized on a semi-military basis.

On January 26, 1942, thirty-two classes were set up in twenty public schools in this city and the training course went into immediate operation. These classes were in session from 7:30 P.M. to 9:30 P.M. five nights each week. The subjects offered were police procedure, first-aid, military drill, criminal law and evidence, chemical warfare and bombs, and firearm instruction. Instructors were recruited from members of the regular department and from members of the auxiliary specially trained. Prominent members of the bar generously offered their services as instructors in law. For those registrants who were unable to attend evening classes, day classes were organized.

2,500 well-trained auxiliary police emerged from this basic thirty-six hour course of instruction. In order to offer to the members of the auxiliary opportunity to familiarize themselves more fully with the duties of their office and to develop their abilities along the lines of the regular department, an advanced course of instruction was formulated. Each Wednesday evening classes were held in school facilities throughout the city and the subjects included traffic control, police courtesy, traffic laws, juvenile delinquency, criminal law, report writing, mechanics of making an arrest, interviews, surveillances, evacuation problems, dim-out regulations, Yawara, seizures and searches, and vehicle accident investigations.

The loss of auxiliary personnel to the armed services has presented a problem, and it has been found necessary to continue enrollment and training courses in order to maintain the service at the recommended numerical strength of 2,500 men. To the end that the ranks of the auxiliary will not be depleted, the process of replacing those who have entered the armed services has been continual.

In order to distinguish the auxiliary police from other civilian defense services, it was found advisable to design a distinctive uniform. The uniform consists of an overseas chapeau, oyster colored zipper jacket, white shirt, black tie, dark civilian trousers, and black shoes. The standard equipment issued to the auxiliary force consists of a gas mask, police signal box key, helmet, police whistle, and baton. A six-pointed metallic star, designating the wearer as an auxiliary police officer, has been authorized as standard equipment for those members who have successfully completed the prescribed course of instruction, actively performed all the duties and assignments required of them, and who have indicated by their conduct that the privilege of possessing this indicia of authority will not be abused.

At the present time, the auxiliary police force numbers more than 2,300 men. These men are assigned to police districts and in an emergency report to one of the 109 decentralization points in their respective districts. Transportation facilities have been made available in the event that their services are required in another area.

A mounted unit of sixty-six men was organized for the purpose of patrolling and policing areas such as the Ocean Beach and Golden Gate Park, where a horseman can more efficiently perform patrol duty.

Thirty-eight motorcycle riders were formed into a unit for the purpose of convoy duty in connection with evacuation or other military traffic patrol, and to insure a communication system if hostile attack should disrupt telephone service.

A chemical warfare unit, composed of expert chemists and metallurgical engineers, contribute their knowledge and experience to the auxiliary personnel, and serve as a corps of specialized experts if the need for their services should arise.

To provide protection against the possible escape of animals in the event of the destruction of Fleishacker Zoo by enemy attack, a rifle unit of expert marksmen was recruited for duty to guard against this exigency.

The auxiliary police have patriotically and generously given their time, performing valuable services in connection with the national emergency. Each Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening, sixty men are detailed to perform traffic duty in the downtown area as part of their training program. They have policed parades, public dedications, and other public functions which presented traffic congestion problems.

The auxiliary police officers have shown the utmost interest in their training program, they have willingly performed the duties assigned to them; and while the intention was to train them for emergency purposes, nevertheless, they are now rendering valuable services to the people of this city.

FIREARMS TRAINING

Practically all members of the Police Department were given instructions in firing with the .38 caliber service revolver, the .45 caliber sub-machine gun, the rifle, and the shotgun. To minimize the cost of this training, reloading equipment and material was purchased and used for all firearms, except for the rifle and shotgun.

During the training of the personnel, the following listed ammunition was used:

- 75,000 Rounds—.38 Special Revolver
- 12,500 Rounds—.45 Automatic Pistol for Thompson Sub-Machine Gun
- 4,800 Rounds—Rifle Ammunition
- 5,600 Rounds—12 Gauge Shotgun

BIG BROTHER BUREAU

The Big Brother Bureau of this department is now well established and is known throughout this city for its work in the elimination of juvenile delinquency among the male youths, as well as for boys who run away from home and come to this city from other parts of the United States.

Juvenile delinquents, or problem children who show possibilities of becoming delinquent, are reported to the Big Brother Bureau by fifteen different reputable agencies, as well as by private persons who know the work of the Bureau.

Members of the Bureau investigate the home environment, the neighborhood environment, and the associates of the alleged delinquent youth. They endeavor to interest the youth in constructive recreational or social programs or render whatever service is necessary and appropriate to each individual case, even to the extent of securing employment for those in need.

Numerous boys' clubs come under the guidance of and are assisted by the Big Brother Bureau. The members of the Bureau act as counselors and in some cases coach ball teams for the boys.

For the past fiscal year the members of the Bureau have handled cases as follows:

Juvenile Delinquents Assisted:

Local boys	441
Transient boys	67	Total 508

Complaints regarding juvenile conditions and situations:

B.B. Gun Complaints:

In this connection, three thousand dollars' worth of obscene literature and movie film was confiscated and destroyed, as the result of the three arrests.

BIG SISTER BUREAU

The Big Sister Bureau of the San Francisco Police Department was opened on February 6, 1942, with Woman Protective Officer Kathryn A. Sullivan in charge.

The prime purpose of the Big Sister Bureau, like the Big Brother Bureau, is crime prevention—to prevent delinquency, wherever possible, in girls and, where the girl already shows a tendency toward delinquency, to endeavor to correct her. It endeavors to help the girl who has made her first misstep. It counsels and aids both girls and parents and serves, in effect, as a clearing house for girls' problems. Many girls and women come to the Big Sister Bureau with a problem and the Bureau directs them to the proper social or civic agency to help them. The work of the Bureau demands, and receives, the wholehearted co-operation of the entire Police Department, all the various departments of the City Government—particularly of the Municipal and Juvenile Courts, the Sheriff's Office, the Board of Health and District Attorney's Office—and all the local social agencies. Too much credit cannot be given Miss Taylor of the Travelers Aid Society, who has been unflinching in response to appeals for shelter for destitute girls or to arrange for the return home of girls who have come from other towns and are disappointed in their hopes of carving out new careers in San Francisco. Miss McGregor of Santa Maria Home has likewise earned acknowledgment of her fine response to appeals for shelter for girls seeking employment here and in whom the Big Sister Bureau is interested.

Most of the girls who find their way to the Big Sister Bureau are referred there by police officers, for it is not infrequent that officers apprehend a girl in some minor infraction of the law and rather than place her immediately under arrest they bring her to the Big Sister Bureau for questioning. Thus a number of girls have been spared Court records, for often a good talk with Mrs. Sullivan serves as a deterrent to further ventures into petty crime. Such cases are followed up with the parents or, in cases where home conditions would indicate that it is advisable, the proper agency—such as the juvenile authorities or a charitable organization—is notified. Many a run-away girl has thus been found and many a girl, still in tender years but posing as over 18, has been found out.

Some of the girls are referred to the Bureau by the Courts. Many are reported by their parents or teachers; still others come voluntarily. Records are not kept of all the girls who pass through the Big Sister Bureau, but from the date of the Bureau's establishment to July 1, 1942, records were kept of 97 girls and it is safe to say that at least another 97 have been interviewed but no records kept.

One of the growing problems of the Big Sister Bureau is presented by the transient girls who come here following the men in the Service. The Big Sister Bureau is working closely with Military authorities in endeavoring to keep these girls in control. It is worthy of note that of the 97 girls whose records are on file in the Big Sister Bureau, about 80% are girls who have been involved with Service men and of this group, 75% are out of town girls and the greater majority are from out of the state. These girls are not only a menace to themselves, but to the men in the Service and to the city as a whole and every effort is made to try to rehabilitate them or to send them back to their places of origin.

In checking through the records of the 97 girls we find that 12 were picked up for shoplifting. These 12 were local girls, all of very tender years. All were turned over to their parents with warnings and none have repeated their offenses.

Four of the 97 were unmarried expectant mothers. Hospitalization was arranged for all four and, although only one of the girls married her child's father, only one of the group gave her baby away for adoption.

Club women have been generous in helping the Big Sister Bureau and an uncounted number of girls and women have been neatly outfitted from the clothes these women have donated. Decent clothing is often the means of restoring her self-respect to a girl and many of the girls thus helped by the Big Sister Bureau have faced the future with more hope and courage. Twenty layettes have been donated and distributed where they will do the most good.

It must be understood that the Big Sister Bureau is not a social agency nor does it attempt to intrude upon the functions of social agencies or other governmental agencies. It is, as mentioned above, one of the crime prevention units of the Police Department and as a liaison office between women and girls in trouble and the proper authority to help them.

BUREAU OF SPECIAL SERVICES

The function of the Bureau of Special Services (established April 13, 1937) is that of an auxiliary to the Chief of Police in the investigation of complaints and in the repression of gambling, prostitution, illegal sale of liquor and other forms of commercialized vice.

This bureau works in close co-operation with the Department of Public Health in the repression of venereal diseases. With the proximity of war to San Francisco during the past year and the resultant changes in population, this has become an increased problem requiring added police attention. Extraordinary remedies have been employed in co-operation with the Federal Government and close co-operation with Army and Navy authorities has also been part of the program.

Following is the statistical report of this bureau for the twelve-month period ending June 30, 1942:

Number of Raids Resulting in Arrests

In addition to the foregoing, practically all of the police reports are indexed and filed in the Record Room. A card index system is also maintained there for the purpose of locating lost and stolen property reported to the police.

White cards bearing serial numbers or initials of such lost or stolen property are written and filed, against which blue cards written daily from Pawn Shop reports are checked, thus keeping a constant check on all property pawned in San Francisco. Articles taken from persons arrested on criminal charges are also checked against the indexed cards of lost or stolen property.

A card index system is also maintained covering lost and stolen property listed in circulars and teletypes received from outside jurisdictions. These are checked in the same manner as the local reports.

The state teletype system, under the administration of California's Division of Criminal Identification and Investigation, has long been noted for its comprehensive coverage and skillful operation. The war brought greater demands upon this system in the form of increased use by the Army and Navy, as well as Civilian Defense. This, added to the normally heavy volume of police business, presented serious problems which were met promptly by increasing personnel and the installation of six new stations at Oroville, Ukiah, Marysville, Napa, Santa Cruz, and Palo Alto. These actions insured a continuation of the splendid co-operation the state has long extended to law enforcement agencies—an aid for which this department wishes to express its appreciation.

TWO-WAY RADIO

This department, for some time, had recognized the need for a means by which patrolling radio car officers could instantly contact headquarters when emergencies, such as robberies, serious accidents, and similar incidents were encountered. Too much time was lost in locating public telephones or signal boxes and in many cases a loss of but seconds can result in the escape of a criminal or bring death to some seriously injured person.

Two-way radio was the answer to this problem, but it was not until September 11, 1941 that completely dependable equipment could be obtained and installed in 19 mobile units. The police boat "D. A. White" took one of the initial transmitters while the balance went into radio cars. An additional 31 transmitters were obtained later, all of which went into patrol cars.

As indicated elsewhere in this annual report, two-way operators have used this equipment on 44,772 separate occasions to call for assistance or acknowledge assignments given to them in radio broadcasts. The latter use, while routine, is of great value in that it insures the correct receipt of assignments and serves to prevent the loss of time and needless depreciation of equipment that would otherwise result from responding to improper addresses. Such economy is always desirable, but far more so at this time when the conservation of rubber and gasoline is so essential to our war effort.

Messages are sent to patrol cars through a Western Electric model 9A A.M. transmitter, 400 watts, on 2466 kilocycles. There is also an emergency transmitter. The mobile transmitters are FM, 25 watts on 29380 kilocycles. 19 of these units are of RCA manufacture while the balance are Link products. Reception is assured by a diversity receiving system with five remote receivers located at strategic points throughout the city.

The inauguration of the new facility made necessary a complete rearrangement of the Communications Bureau. A more compact means for broadcasting and receiving our radio messages had to be contrived. Some method for accommodating the receivers by which we now could converse with all other police authorities in the Bay Area was also needed. The problem was further complicated by an antiquated system for receiving bank and burglar alarms. These terminated in several boxes of varied size and design and covered most of one wall.

The change of operational methods, while insuring a marked increase of volume, did not contemplate additional personnel and it was therefore necessary to design an operating console that would enable the present personnel to efficiently carry on the increased volume of work.

We installed a console 8½ feet wide, 5 feet high, and 5 feet deep which accommodates two operators who have at their fingertips the complete radio operating facilities of the department. Without moving, either man can receive a holdup or burglar alarm or any complaint, make the proper patrol car assignment, broadcast the message, record the service status of the car, converse with any district station or conduct a radio conversation with authorities in other counties.

As funds are made available the number of two-way cars will be increased until many more mobile units are so equipped. This will not necessitate any change in the original console design. It is flexible enough to accommodate any increase the department may contemplate.

The war, of course, is presenting a temporary deterrent to the department's desire to broaden its two-way coverage. At the present time military needs are receiving the first consideration of all radio manufacturers. As production increases it is expected some equipment will be diverted to essential civilian needs, and any further expansion must come from these limited sources. The two-way radio has proved to be a great benefit to the San Francisco Police Department. Numerous important arrests have been made and personal service rendered that might not have been possible without this aid.

One example might be cited to show just how this facility affords communication when no other means is available. Recently a radio car officer was patrolling an isolated section of the Ingleside District when he encountered several men who were in the act of repainting a new automobile they had stolen but a short time before. Upon sighting the officer they scattered in several directions over paths that prevented his giving chase in the police car. The nearest telephone was at least one-half mile distant, but fortunately he was equipped with one of the new two-way transmitters. A call to headquarters consumed but several seconds and other cars were immediately dispatched to block off the several avenues of possible escape. All the men were captured by officers who had moved rapidly to their assigned posts. Such prompt action would have been impossible before the inauguration of the two-way system.

STATISTICAL ROOM

The Statistical Division of the Bureau of Criminal Information is completely equipped with Hollerith Key Punch equipment and tabulating machines. By use of these machines the statistics are so kept that any information concerning crime in San Francisco may be obtained in a few minutes. In addition, this division is charged with the responsibility of preparing periodical reports on offenses, arrests and traffic enforcement, and the rendering of special statistical departmental reports, as required. Here also are maintained statistics from records of arrests which are filed daily in this office.

Some of the reports compiled by this department are in part, as follows:

Monthly reports to the F.B.I. on all crime.

Monthly reports to the National Safety Council covering motor vehicle accident statistics.

Monthly Felony Arrest report to the Bureau of Criminal Identification, at Sacramento.

Annual report to National Safety Council on motor vehicle statistics.

Annual Arrest and Disposition report to the F.B.I.

Annual Report of the Police Department.

General statistics on all crimes, arrests, traffic citations, automobile accidents, and all other accident cases reported to the police.

In addition, all traffic citations issued by all members of the Police Department are received, segregated and distributed to their respective destinations.

SCHOOL TRAFFIC PATROL

In 1923, the School Safety Patrol was organized in the Public Schools of San Francisco by the Police Department. In 1928 it was extended to the Parochial Schools and at the present time the Safety Patrol system is in operation in all of the Public and Parochial Schools of this city.

The School Safety Patrols are under the full time supervision of two members of the Police Department—the inspector of School Safety Patrols and his assistant. The members of the Patrols number 3,000. They are on duty three times daily, on school days, at over 600 important intersections in the vicinity of schools, guarding the safety of over 100,000 school children while they are traveling to and from school. In conjunction with the members of this department from the various stations who are detailed at school crossings for the protection of school children, the boys of the Patrols have a remarkable safety record—that of not having any child killed or seriously injured at any school crossing during their periods of regular traffic patrol since 1923.

The inspector of School Safety Patrols and his assistant give safety lectures in all of the schools from time to time, and in some cases illustrate their talks with motion pictures. A new Patrol Squad is organized and the members instructed in their duties at least once during each term at each school.

The routes used by children going to and returning from school are surveyed by the Police Officers in charge of the School Patrols, and they recommend the installation of safety devices and warning signs where necessary.

Our records show a decrease in the accident rate among the children of school age. During the year 1943 there were only four traffic fatalities in the school age group—ages 6 to 16, none of which occurred at school crossings where members of the Safety Patrol were on duty.

In addition to the regular safety education programs in the schools, the inspector of school safety patrols conducts a school for violators of traffic laws on each Tuesday night. Youthful traffic violators are sent to the school to attend a six-week course by the juvenile court as a term of probation, following their conviction of traffic violations. During the year 1943 graduates of this course numbered 131.

POLICE ACADEMY

The close of 1943 marks the completion of the sixth year of operation of the Academy. During this time the record of accomplishments, changes, improvements and objectives has steadily climbed toward higher levels.

The aim of the school is to accept new appointees and train them in the rudiments and fundamentals of basic police procedure, imbue them with an appreciation of the high standards and ideals of police service expected of them by the people of San Francisco and send them forth better equipped and determined to attain these objectives. The Academy motto is "ENTER HERE TO LEARN—GO FORTH TO SERVE."

A second and equally important objective and duty of the Academy is, of course, to keep abreast of the times, as reflected in new and improved police procedures and knowledge, and to re-train and refresh in-service officers of all grades in these things. It has been aptly said that a policeman "does not stay trained."

Since July 1, 1942, ten classes of police recruits have been trained at the Academy, the classes varying in strength from 10 to 48 men, totalling 220. The classes were designated as the 11th to 19th Recruit classes. Included with each of the 12th to 18th classes was a contingent of Military Police detailed from the 524th and 749th Military Police Battalions and varying from five to ten enlisted men in each class. The 524th and 749th Military Police Battalions are local units. Also a special class was conducted for two weeks for two officers and 23 enlisted men of the 524th Military Police Battalion during November, 1942.

In addition to Police Recruit Classes four classes in "YAWARA" (unarmed offense and defense) were given to special groups including:

- 9 Police Officers (Auxiliary Police Instructors)
- 18 Soldiers, 184th Infantry, Presidio
- 19 Soldiers, 6th C. A. C., Presidio and Fort Scott
- 17 Soldiers, Military Intelligence Group

All students attending the recruit classes were duly graduated and tendered suitable certificates of attendance by the Chief of Police at the end of each course. The graduation ceremonies were conducted at the Police Academy under the auspices of the Chief of Police, the Director of Personnel, the Deputy Chief of Police, the Academy faculty and others.

A precedent in police recruiting was inaugurated in the department during the year when it became necessary to replace losses of manpower to the Armed Forces by accepting and inducting men on a limited tenure basis. Since April 26, 1943, 94 limited tenure policemen have been appointed, trained and assigned to duty in the several outlying Police Districts. As the need for replacements was so great and urgent the course of training for these men was considerably condensed, particularly in point of time. These limited tenure men, who range in age from their early twenties to forty-five and who survived the training and the first few weeks of actual duty on the job (firing line, so to speak), are giving splendid service and helping to fill a serious gap in the city's defense against crime and disorder. The processing of limited tenure candidates into the department has been conducted mostly by the faculty of the Academy, beginning with the reception of the applicant from the Civil Service office, preliminary checking of records, questioning, fingerprinting, interviewing, and checking with vouchers and references.

Another police innovation was the acceptance of three colored men for police service. After training they were assigned to the Northern Police District for duty, in view of the greater concentration of colored people in that area.

The 13th, 16th and 18th Recruit Classes generously and patriotically donated blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank as group activities during their attendance at the Academy.

On September 10, 1943, the headquarters of the Air Raid Warden Service, Civilian Defense, was moved from the Police Academy to the San Francisco Hospital at 955 Potrero Avenue. The drill hall in the basement of the Academy was and still is being utilized for the storage of much Civilian Defense equipment and material until other facilities can be obtained. The removal of the ARWS Headquarters naturally relieves the faculty of the Academy of a mass of work and administrative detail in connection with the Warden Service. However, responsibility for the maintenance and efficiency of the Warden Service still resides in the Police Department and members of the Faculty, in consequence, continue to attend meetings of the Warden staff and critiques and practice drills at the control centers during simulated raids and incidents. Members of the Faculty also instruct classes and groups of the Auxiliary Police. Subjects taught at the Police Academy include:

AUXILIARY POLICE

The year 1943 was one of accomplishments for the Auxiliary Police. The year 1942 saw extensive organization, training and the welding of the auxiliary recruits into a self-sufficient and efficient unit but 1943 witnessed the active participation of the auxiliary police in the law enforcement work of the department.

Having completed basic instruction and field training the auxiliary police continued on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month advanced courses of instruction. The instructors were selected on the basis of special training and experience from the personnel of the regular department, as well as the auxiliary service. Lectures were given on panic prevention, law of arrest, fire defense, evacuation, modus operandi, juvenile delinquency, yawara, criminal investigation, courtesy, public relations, scientific methods of crime detection and evidence. The classes were held in conveniently located schools and meeting places within the respective districts. Upon successful completion of this advanced course of instruction certificates of graduation were awarded to the participants.

As part of the training program, the range facilities of the Department were opened to the exclusive use of the auxiliary police on Sunday afternoons. Under the able direction of Auxiliary Captain Harold R. Harlan and his aides, Lieutenants Adolph Buck and Armando Flocchini, over 1000 members received actual practice in the use of firearms. It is a fitting tribute to the skill and perseverance of the auxiliaries that 610 members received ratings of marksmen or better as a result of this training.

In order to foster interest in the efficient use of firearms individual and inter-company competitions were conducted during the months of August and September. Sergeant Edward Rosing of Company "J" (Potrero) emerged the victor in the individual competition. Men selected on the basis of their marksmanship represented their respective companies and Company "H" (Ingleside) was adjudged the winner of the inter-company competition.

Approximately 400 members of the Auxiliary Police possess their own firearms and the carrying of the same has been authorized by the Chief of Police when the bearer is a qualified marksman and is in the discharge of official duties. Equipped with batons and revolvers, the individual auxiliary possesses sufficient means of defense to cope with any emergency.

In the early months of 1943, a day and a night organization was created for the purpose of providing adequate police protection in all sections of the city at all times. In the event of an emergency during the daytime hours, when the services of an auxiliary would be required, assembly places were designated in close proximity to the individual's place of employment. The original assembly places created on the basis of residence remained in force. In this manner the entire personnel could be mobilized, at any hour of the day or night, if such were necessary.

Field training instituted in 1942 was continued during the past year. The downtown area continued to be policed by members of the Auxiliary Traffic Bureau, specially created for this purpose, augmented by members from other companies. Every Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening pedestrian and vehicular traffic in this congested area was efficiently controlled and supervised by the auxiliary. On Sundays and holidays the Ocean Beach and boulevards are similarly patrolled. The services of the mounted unit and the motorcycle unit have been of great value in this connection.

Football games, public celebrations and parades were also policed by the Auxiliary Police. With the lifting of the dimout restrictions, by military proclamation, more auxiliaries were free to participate in other law enforcement activities. A substantial number of men had been employed in the enforcement of the dimout restrictions. A detail was established for the purpose of patrolling parks, squares and other locations frequented by degenerates. The presence of these auxiliaries soon discouraged the commission of illegal acts in such locations. The auxiliaries worked in pairs on this dangerous detail. The services rendered extended to foot patrol in residential areas and radio car patrol.

During the search for the so-called "Green Glove Rapist" foot patrol in the residential districts was augmented by the auxiliaries, who replaced in many instances the regular men of the department engaged in the search for the "terrorist." The radio cars in outlying districts are now occupied by a regular man of the department and an auxiliary during the evening hours. This has been most successful and augments the city-wide patrol. The auxiliary police have contributed 465,535 man hours to the people of San Francisco. This represents approximately the services of 53,192 men performing one eight-hour tour of duty or 193 men working a whole year and being allowed one day off each week and fourteen days' vacation. The department suffering from a manpower shortage and burdened with added responsibilities, due to wartime conditions, gratefully acknowledges its debt to the Auxiliary Police.

Although the recruiting of replacements has been reduced, it is gratifying to note that at the present time the strength of the Auxiliary Police consists of 1850 active men, a loss of only 400 from the highest registration in January 1942. This is a tribute to their loyal and patriotic desire to serve the City and County of San Francisco.

The Second Annual Review of the Auxiliary Police was held on Sunday, October 20, 1943, in the Civic Center. The entire available strength of the Auxiliary Police participated. At 2:15 P.M. each company marched in review before the Reviewing Officers and distinguished guests. In addition to the district companies, the specialized units including the zoo unit, the mounted unit, the traffic bureau and the motorcycle squad participated in this demonstration. The Auxiliary Police Drum and Bugle Corps headed the review. Trophies were awarded to the most efficient company, the most efficient drill team, the most efficient lieutenant, the most efficient sergeant, the most efficient corporal and the most efficient patrolman. Additional awards were given to the specialized groups for the excellence of their contributions.

The drill units of Companies "H" and "I," winner and runner-up in the inter-company drill competition, gave a demonstration of drilling that was impressive. The decontamination squad in cooperation with the United States Army Chemical Warfare Division demonstrated the use of poison gas and the methods of combating same. The motorcycle unit demonstrated precision riding entailing the highest degree of skill. The review was witnessed by His Honor the Mayor, the Chief of Police, the Police Commission, high ranking Army officers, and other distinguished guests.

The Department and the Municipality owe the auxiliary police a great debt for they have contributed much in safeguarding the home front, not only against the possible attack of the enemy but against depredations of those who would prey upon the innocent and unprotected civilians in the hour of national emergency.

BIG SISTER BUREAU

During the second year of its existence, the Big Sister Bureau handled 236 cases involving girls ranging in age from eleven to twenty-one years. Of this number approximately 50% were out-of-town girls, who were picked up by Police Officers as suspected runaways, juveniles or vagrants. Through the Travelers' Aid Society most of the girls were returned to their homes but a few were helped to find suitable residences and employment in San Francisco.

Local girls were referred to the Big Sister Bureau by police officers, school teachers, social workers, department store detectives and others—in some cases the girls came voluntarily. Fifty young girls were involved in shop-lifting, fourteen of whom were sent in by school teachers. The others were picked up by store detectives but because of their youth they were brought in to the Big Sister Bureau. The parents of the girls were also brought in and informed of their daughters' activities. Those girls who were first offenders were reprimanded and placed in the custody of their parents; those found to be second offenders were turned over to the juvenile authorities. However, only two girls brought in for shop-lifting during the year repeated their offenses.

Twenty-two unmarried mothers were helped during the year by the Big Sister Bureau, ten of this number were local girls and the others were girls who had come here to marry the fathers of their children, who were in the Armed Forces. With the cooperation of military authorities and the Red Cross, where service men were involved they were located and where paternity was acknowledged arrangements were made for support of the children. Marriages were arranged in fourteen cases and among the entire twenty-two girls only three gave their babies up for adoption.

The Big Sister Bureau, during the past year, extended its activities in the fight against juvenile delinquency. Mrs. Sullivan, in charge of the Bureau, made a series of talks at the schools, before mothers' clubs and other women's groups and even before men's clubs and fraternal organizations. She also made frequent radio broadcasts, to warn girls and their parents of the pitfalls confronting juvenile girls during war years. Also a program was instituted whereby women (special officers) were placed in night clubs and taverns for the purpose of preventing admission of minors and to enforce the law against serving liquor to intoxicated persons. These women are paid by the owners of the establishment. They are deputized by the Chief of Police as Special Officers and have police authority in places in which they are employed. They receive the fullest cooperation and assistance from Police Officers, Military Police and Shore Patrol. Their vigilance has resulted in many juvenile girls being picked up, most of them runaways from other sections of the country.

These women report daily and turn in a weekly written report except when some unusual situation arises and then they send in a report within twenty-four hours. They are all experienced workers between the ages of thirty-five and forty-five years and are thoroughly investigated before being sworn in as Special Officers. The charge of this detail has been turned over to the Big Sister Bureau and Mrs. Sullivan, in charge of the Bureau, spends four or five evenings each week visiting the various clubs and taverns, where the women are employed, to check on their activities.

In addition to the foregoing, practically all of the police reports are indexed and filed in the Record Room. A card index system is also maintained there for the purpose of locating lost and stolen property reported to the police.

White cards bearing serial numbers or initials of such lost or stolen property are written and filed, against which blue cards written daily from Pawn Shop reports are checked, thus keeping a constant check on all property pawned in San Francisco. Articles taken from persons arrested on criminal charges are also checked against the indexed cards of lost or stolen property.

A card index system is also maintained covering lost and stolen property listed in circulars and teletypes received from outside jurisdictions. These are checked in the same manner as the local reports.

STATISTICAL ROOM

The Statistical Division of the Bureau of Criminal Information is completely equipped with Hollerith key punch equipment and tabulating machines. By use of these machines the statistics are so kept that any information concerning crime in San Francisco may be obtained in a few minutes. In addition, this division is charged with the responsibility of preparing periodical reports on offenses, arrests and traffic enforcement, and the rendering of special statistical departmental reports, as required. Here also are maintained statistics from records of arrests which are filed daily in this office.

Some of the reports compiled by this department are as follows:

Monthly reports to the F.B.I. on all crime.

Monthly reports to the National Safety Council covering motor vehicle accident statistics.

Monthly felony arrest report to the Bureau of Criminal Identification, at Sacramento.

Annual report to National Safety Council on motor vehicle statistics.

Annual Arrest and Disposition report to the F.B.I.

Annual report of the police department.

General statistics on all crimes, arrests, traffic citations, automobile accidents, and all other accident cases reported to the police.

In addition, all traffic citations issued by all members of the police department are received, segregated and distributed to their respective destinations.

18TH ANNUAL SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL REVIEW

MAY 25, 1944

CIVIC CENTER

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL

The School Safety Patrols are under full time supervision of the Inspector of School Safety Patrols and his assistant. They visit the schools and organize the patrols each school term. They also give safety lectures to the students and illustrate them with motion picture sound films.

The routes used by the children going to and from school are surveyed by the Inspector of School Safety Patrols. Stop signs, traffic signals, pedestrian underpasses, painted pedestrian crosswalks, and "School Slow" signs are installed where necessary.

In addition to the safety education in the schools, a school for violators of the traffic laws is conducted each Tuesday night. 217 juvenile traffic law violators served probationary terms in said school during the year 1944.

Number of public schools in San Francisco.....	96

Number of children assigned on patrol.....	3,500
Number of school crossings handled by school patrols.....	600
Number of school children attending schools.....	100,000

The regular patrolmen assigned to street duty also assist the school boys in the regulation of traffic at various locations throughout the city.

During the year 1944, only three children of school age were killed by automobiles, but none of them was killed at school crossings or on school days.

AUXILIARY POLICE

The auxiliary police, organized in January 1942, as a unit of the Civilian Defense Corps, continued its splendid service to the community during 1944.

As the threat of enemy attack on the Pacific Coast gradually diminished, the auxiliary police knitted itself more closely to the regular department in the performance of routine police duty. To facilitate the co-ordination of the activities of the auxiliary and the regular department, twelve members of the Police Department were assigned to reorganize the duties of the auxiliary to include all work normally performed by the regular department.

Today, the total enrolled strength is approximately 1,800, of whom about 800 are definitely active. These 800 men comprise what is termed the "active auxiliary", the remaining 1,000 being termed the "reserves". This reserve body of men is being kept on the rolls as a potential source of additional manpower if the need should ever arise. The department is reluctant to drop these reserve men due to their having been well trained at the time of their entry and, no doubt, they would prove very valuable if needed.

The active units are assigned to the several police companies and consist of foot, motorcycle, and mounted officers. All are doing duty consisting of general patrol duties, traffic details, and special assignments. In addition, these men have properly handled and disposed of "on view" cases which have come to their individual attention, both on and off duty.

On general patrol, an average of 292 men per week have performed 67,652 hours during the year—on traffic duty an average of 95 men per week have performed 21,684 hours during the year, on special assignments an average of 116 men per week have performed 32,916 hours during the year; handling "on view" cases an average of 16 men per week performed 2288 hours during the year; and schooling has had an average of 169 men per week, or 24,076 hours of training during the year. A complete tabulation, therefore, shows that the present active personnel of the San Francisco Auxiliary Police consisting of a weekly average of 688 men have performed the staggering sum of 148,616 hours of volunteer duty for the City and County.

A financial gain to the City is represented on the basis of a regular patrolman's salary of $1.05 per hour. At this rate, the man hours performed by these volunteers amount to approximately $156,046. In addition thereto, these men have issued approximately 17,836 traffic citations at an average of $1 per citation, thus adding to the City treasury about $17,836. Also, in addition, there can be taken into account a large unknown sum of money derived from court convictions from persons arrested by these men.

Records show these volunteers have made 624 bona fide arrests, both felony and misdemeanor, in the course of their duties, most of which have resulted in legal convictions. Approximately 144 stolen automobiles have been recovered—1196 aided cases handled in which persons were assisted in auto and other accidents—and approximately 208 commendations to individual auxiliary officers were dispatched through the medium of Chief's general orders. As to firearms training and qualifications, there are now 540 active members who have qualified as marksmen or better, at our range, which permits them to carry sidearms while on duty. No mishaps, minor or serious, have resulted from this practice and it affords normal protection to these men while performing volunteer police duty.

City equipment issued to these men consist of batons and police-box keys and Civilian Defense equipment of helmets, gas masks, and whistles. The men themselves have provided their own uniforms, stars, and protective equipment. Budget requirements for the operation of this unit have been kept at an absolute minimum with appropriation for only contractual services, materials, and supplies totaling $4,600. A recent appropriation of $3,000 is shared with the Air Raid Warden Service for certain auxiliary members to receive $.06 per mile for necessary use of their private automobiles.

San Francisco is, indeed, fortunate in having, at its disposal, the services of the auxiliary police. The City and the Police Department owe this splendid body of patriotic Americans a great debt.

SAN FRANCISCO POLICE DEPARTMENT PISTOL RANGE

SAN FRANCISCO POLICE DEPARTMENT PISTOL RANGE

July 15, 1944 witnessed the completion of the San Francisco Police Pistol Range. Up to this time no facilities had ever been provided for the essential training of police officers in the handling and use of firearms, and this event marked the dawn of a new era wherein the officers and men of our department became more capable and better fitted to carry on their work of protecting the lives and property of the citizens of this community.

This range is situated on the westerly shore of Lake Merced and is the first unit of a contemplated Police Academy and Training Grounds; it encompasses an area of approximately four acres.

Plans and specifications were prepared in the office of the City Architect, considerable thought being devoted to the safety factor while making the range modern in every respect; many original and unique innovations being incorporated in its construction, so that today it is the finest, most complete and up-to-date of its kind in the world.

Construction was originally commenced as a W.P.A. project, but due to war-time conditions the work was closed down with little being accomplished. Shortly thereafter work was again started and the range was finally completed through the efforts of the officers and men of the Police Department who voluntarily contributed both of their time and labor to the end that this most necessary and important project be made available for the training of police officers. It stands today as an enduring monument to those men and as a tribute to the determination, the fixity of purpose and the unselfish loyalty which characterizes the rank and file of the San Francisco Police Department.

The following is a summary of the activities on the range from the opening day, July 16, 1944 to December 31, 1944:

Police Officers (training program).....	1,030
Police Officers requalifying	911

TRAFFIC SURVEY DETAIL

During the past year, there were 788 communications from outside sources requesting surveys for signs, zones, crosswalks, etc. In addition, there were numerous verbal and telephone requests of the same nature.

A total of 77 police recommendations, most of which originated in the Traffic Bureau, were forwarded to the Department of Public Works for survey. Most of these were later installed, resulting in a more efficient and safer traffic control.

In answer to the above outside requests and police recommendations the following was accomplished:

9,357 feet of new zones were surveyed, and installed after approval by the Police Commission. 16,710 feet of existing zones were revoked. These totals include red, yellow, white, and green zones.

541 signs of all types were installed. These consisted of 113 stop signs, 291 regulatory signs, 105 warning signs, and 32 directional signs.

Stop and Go signals were installed at the following 7 new locations: Bay and Hyde Sts., 9th and Harrison Sts., 3rd and Bryant Sts., 6th and Brannan Sts., 9th and Bryant Sts., 3rd St. and Evans Ave., and 3rd and 16th Sts. The signals installed at the last two locations are Klaus and Hinds, 3-light signals, the first of this type installed in San Francisco.

Existing Stop and Go signals at 3 intersections were reopened due to a change in traffic conditions. Also, many signals were surveyed during the year and retimed in accordance with changes in traffic flow.

In addition to the above, approximately 6,000 existing zones must be kept under surveillance and repainted as the need demands.

19TH ANNUAL SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL REVIEW

MAY 17, 1945

KEZAR STADIUM

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL

The School Safety Patrols are under full time supervision of the Inspector of Safety Patrols and his assistant. They visit the schools and organize the patrols each school term. They also give safety lectures to the students and illustrate them with motion picture sound films.

The routes used by the children going to and from school are surveyed by the Inspector of School Safety Patrols. Stop signs, traffic signals, pedestrian underpasses, painted pedestrian crosswalks and "School Slow" signs are installed where necessary.

The following data shows in part the functions of this Bureau:

Number of Public Schools in San Francisco.....	97
Number of Parochial Schools in San Francisco.....	29
Other Private Elementary Schools in San Francisco.....	3
Numbers of members of School Safety Patrol.....	3,500
Number of school crossings handled by Patrols.....	600
Number of children attending schools.....	100,000
Additional schools provided for children in housing projects.....	5

The regular patrolmen assigned to street duty also assist the school boys in the regulation of traffic at various locations throughout the city. No accidents involving school children occurred at school crossings during the year 1945.

FLAG RAISING EXERCISES AT POLICE ACADEMY

SAN FRANCISCO POLICE ACADEMY

The year 1945 marked the completion of the eighth year of training at the Police Academy. Despite the effects of World War II, which created an acute manpower shortage, a rather extensive training program was conducted.

Limited tenure recruit officers were given short basic training instruction on basic police procedures. While these courses were necessarily brief, they were intensive and given on a personal tutoring basis.

At the request of the United States Government, the San Francisco Police Academy trained commissioned officers of the Army and Navy in Police Organization and Administration. The San Francisco Police Department was taken as a recognized model of police organization and its principles of operation were explained by the administrative staff officers of the Department. These principles are now being used in occupied areas in the Pacific Theatre of Operations by officers attached to Military Government.

Following the Military Government class, a series of police training courses were given to the superior officers of the Police Department. These courses were conducted on the conference method by Department instructors and recognized authorities from private industry and related law enforcement agencies.

Training was also given on supervisory technique to a group of superior officers of the Police Department by a representative of the War Manpower Commission as a part of the Job Relations program of the United States Government.

During August and September, a series of ten schools on the specialized subject of safe burglaries was conducted under the joint auspices of the San Francisco Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. These schools were not only attended by the members of our Department, but also by the members of police departments in the Bay Area. These courses were of a technical nature and were given by laboratory technicians from the Federal Bureau at Washington, D. C., experts from our Department, and a representative of the Hermann Safe Company of San Francisco.

The Police Academy also trained the special police of the San Francisco Housing Authority, who are under the supervision of a superior officer of this Department.

Following the cessation of hostilities with Japan, the tempo of training was increased with availability of recruit personnel. Regular classes were held and by the end of the year the Department had nearly reached its authorized strength.

POLICE RESERVE

In addition to the members of the regular police force, the department has at the present time an enrollment of 693 volunteer members comprising the San Francisco Police Reserve, most of whom are former members of the Auxiliary Police Service, a unit of the Civilian Defense.

On December 11, 1944, a committee from the ranks of the said Auxiliary Police presented a petition to the Honorable Board of Police Commissioners in which they traced the history of the organization, its value, and also enumerated many reasons for its continuance. They also requested that the said Auxiliary Police be reorganized into a police reserve and its members be uniformed.

The Police Commission and the Chief of Police fully realized the importance of having such an organization continue its relation with the department, particularly so, because it represented an additional arm to the department of well trained and experienced volunteers whose value as extra policemen on the streets of this city was of paramount importance due to the department's acute shortage of manpower. An ordinance was therefor prepared and submitted to the Board of Supervisors which received unanimous passage on January 29, 1945, as Ordinance 3108, series of 1939. This ordinance created the San Francisco Police Reserve with a membership not to exceed 800 men. It also provided for the qualification, duties, power, compensation, and benefits of the members, as well as placing the organization under the jurisdiction of the police department.

Immediately upon adoption of the ordinance, specifications were drawn for the official uniform, star, and other equipment to be worn by the members and submitted to the Board of Police Commissioners for approval. The adopted uniform closely resembles that worn by the department members except for the inclusion of a crescent shaped shoulder patch and a few minor tailoring changes. A six pointed star was adopted to aid in distinguishing the Reserve members. As provided in the ordinance, each member receives the total sum of fifty dollars from the city as compensation for fifty hours of duty. All members have purchased the official uniform from these earnings which were deposited into a private bank account upon endorsement by the individuals. The uniforms were supplied by two local tailoring concerns which were awarded the contract after competitive bidding.

As was also provided in the ordinance, rules and regulations for the Police Reserve were promulgated and adopted by the Police Commission. These rules set up the various positions, commands, duties, discipline, minimum hours of duty, and other pertinent matters and were later printed into book form and supplied each member.

On March 20, 1945, through the medium of a Chief's Order, the San Francisco Police Reserve was placed in operation in lieu of the old Auxiliary Police and at which time the officer personnel for the Reserve was named by the Chief of Police. Five Reserve Captains were provided, namely: a Supervising Captain, a Captain of Special Events, a Captain of Personnel, a Captain of Juvenile Welfare, and a Captain to act as Secretary; forty-one Reserve Lieutenants were provided to command the several Reserve companies, units, and platoons in the various police districts; and eighty Reserve Sergeants were provided to supervise the Reserve patrolmen while on daily assignments.

To properly unite this volunteer organization with the regular police department and to control and supervise its police activities a liaison was established, composed of eleven regular department members. Originally one police officer in each police district acted in the capacity of a liaison officer to the Reserve in his respective district. In November of this year the number of liaisons was reduced and at the present time liaison duties between the department and the Reserve consists of one Sergeant of Police under the Deputy Chief of Police for the entire Reserve and four police officers, each with two or more Reserve companies to manage.

Under the jurisdiction and control of the above mentioned four liaison officers working directly under the Police Captains, the Police Reserve maintains a nightly patrol throughout the city. This patrol consists of Reserves working in pairs assigned to regular beats or areas in the several police districts and the four of these nightly patrols is usually from 8:00 P. M. to 12:00 P. M., but in some instances the patrol is maintained until 2:00 A. M. In addition to this patrol, Sunday and Holiday daytime vehicular traffic is controlled at areas in the city where such traffic is usually heavy, such as the Ocean Beach, Park-Presidio Drive, Sloat Boulevard, 19th Avenue, et cetera. Aid in the control of night-time traffic in the down town area is given by Reserve members attached to the Traffic Bureau. The Reserve officers fall in at their regular assigned police stations, are given their assignments, and are read any information or orders concerning crime, wanted persons, wanted automobiles, et cetera. The benefits of such a procedure is best proved by the results accomplished which are listed later in this report. A check on their activities while on such assignments is constantly maintained and accurate records kept of each member's assignment, hours performed, and duty rendered. Each Reserve is required to report off duty in person at the conclusion of his tour in order to provide a safety check of all men on duty.

During the recent celebrations connected with "VJ" day the entire Police Reserve was assembled and placed on duty throughout the city, but particularly in the down town area to aid the regular department in the policing of the celebration. During this week alone, and especially on the nights of the celebration, the Police Reserve filled 1,520 assignments, put in 9,388 man-hours, made 5 felony arrests, 89 misdemeanor arrests, and assisted regular department members in 145 cases. Buses from the Municipal Railway were dispatched and used to transport the Reserve officers from the outlying districts to the down town area where they were required.

To summarize the activities of the San Francisco Police Reserve from the time of its inception on March 20th of this year to December 31, 1945, and to better evaluate its benefit to the city the following information taken from the records is given:

Total Enrolled	693
Assignments Filled
Patrol	15,594
Traffic	2,367
Special	6,490
Total.....	24,451
Man-Hours Performed
Patrol	71,546
Traffic	10,890
Special	33,137
Total.....	115,573
Actions Taken
Felony Arrests	43
Misdemeanor Arrests	735
Stolen Autos Recovered	141
Traffic Citations Issued	10,580
Department Cases Assisted	1,197
Total.....	12,696

As can be seen by the above report and figures, the Police Reserve of this city is a well organized and disciplined unit closely knitted into the normal workings of the regular department. The staggering sum of 24,451 assignments filled and 115,573 man-hours performed by these volunteers speaks exceptionally well for the morale and desire of the Reserve members to do a good job for this city and this department during its critical man power shortage. As important as these figures may appear they are secondary to the results accomplished as shown by the figures of the actions taken. The fact that so many bona-fide arrests were made, and in almost all cases convictions obtained, the number of stolen automobiles recovered, and the 10,580 traffic citations issued without any serious complaint from the public, along with other fine services speaks for the efficiency and alertness of the men.
